

These photographs help us remember: that in many ways, life is the same wherever you go. People work, people play, there are small towns and cities, there are rich and poor people, . . . As human beings, we share the same planet and we are all part of God's creation. Diversity is to be valued and appreciated.

Top Left: Children of all ages enjoy a Ronald McDonald program in a modern shopping mall.

Top Right and Bottom: People everywhere enjoy the town square, the arts, and the beauty of plants, trees and flowers.
